

Aisha Babangida receives gold medal award in Belgium

11 days ago 2803 views by Seun Durojaiye - Founder of Africa Women's Forum, Aisha Babangida, has been given a gold medal for her good works - Babangida recently attended Crans Montana Forum in Belgium, where she was recognised and awarded - The lady is committed to the development of women in Nigeria Every good work deserves recognition. Which is why it comes as no surprise that chairperson of Africa Women's Forum, Aisha Babangida, has been recognised and awarded for her good works and values. The good news was announced on Twitter by Ovation boss, Dele Momodu, who celebrated the brilliant woman for her great works. It was gathered that Babangida was recently gifted a gold medal at the Crans Montana Forum, in Brussels, Belgium. Babangida was honored for her commitment towards the development of women in Nigeria and Africa at large.

Momodu also shared photos from the special ceremony on his Twitter page, expressing gladness that one of us is making us proud for her good deeds.

Better Life Program for the African Rural Woman is a non-profit organisation founded in 1987. Meanwhile, Legit.ng shared details of renowned Nigerian physicist Dr. Osatohamen Osewengie, a world-class physicist who builds drones for the United States Army. Just recently, media personality, Dele Momodu dedicated a post to celebrate the achievements of Dr. Osewengie, who he described as one of the best physicist in the world. Dr. Osemwengie started making marks in 1982 while he served as one of the board of trustees of College of Education, Benin City. In that time, he was named educator of the year for his efforts in securing funds used to design and implement pre-service teacher education programs.